The Clan Cross (Tom, Mike and Ken Crouch), Irish folk singers, will appear in a concert Sunday, April 30 for WRUW-FM to be broadcast live from behind the Mather Building. The group will also be appearing at the Olive Tree Saturday, May 6.

Touch of Irish comes to Hill

WRUW-FM and the CWRU Student Union Board are presenting a free concert Sunday afternoon in the Mather Building courtyard. Mike Spiro, The Clan Cross, and Swamp Buggy are scheduled to perform beginning at 1:00 pm. In case of rain, the Union Ballroom has been reserved as an alternate site.

Mike Spiro is a Case student who performs a variety of popular folk and folk-rock material by such artists as James Taylor and CSN&Y. He has previously performed at several other area campuses, as well as a Hillier Mixer and the Rap-Cellar on this campus.

The Clan Cross is an Irish folk trio that plays every Saturday night at Duane's Tavern on W. 58th St. Tom, Ken, and Michael Cross are "The Clan," and they've developed an exciting show featuring great vocal work and a dazzling variety of acoustic instruments.

Playing Friday nights at the Viking Saloon near CSU has established Swamp Buggy as one fine band for boogie music. The group plays rock 'n roll with a country blues flavor, displaying elements of timing, tightness and control that are the very roots of good rock.

They'll make a return appearance May 6th at Hillier.

Pack up some goodies and enjoy the music. WRUW is taping the show for a possible broadcast at a later date, but it'll be a live show but once!

Sing along with George

A star-studded cast of musicians and entertainers will highlight the final days of Senator McGovern's Ohio campaign with a benefit concert at the Cleveland Arena at 8:30 Friday night.

The gala evening of entertainment will feature folksingers Joni Mitchell and Paul Simon, and rock star James Taylor.

Some of the top names in films and television will serve as ushers for the evening -- Warren Beatty, Jack Nicholson, Julie Christie, Goldie Hawn, and Peggy Lipton.

Senator McGovern will also appear at the concert for some brief remarks.

The entertainers are donating their time as supporters of Senator McGovern. Proceeds from the event will go to Senator McGovern's Ohio and national campaign efforts. A similar concert in Los Angeles earlier this month raised over $250,000 for the campaign.

Tickets for the benefit concert, now on sale at the Cleveland Arena Box Office, 3717 Euclid Avenue, are $5.50, $6.50 and $7.50. A limited number of $50 patron tickets, including a cocktail party with the celebrities, are available through the McGovern for
